Working in partnership with our clients across the globe, we deliver outcome-based solutions that are increasing our clients’ revenue, operational efficiencies and brand loyalty. We also significantly increased our free cash flow and reduced our borrowings, reflecting our commitment to further deleverage and strengthen our balance sheet. This was accomplished against the backdrop of an evolving market in both our Engage and Digital segments,” commented Kenny Wagers, chief financial officer of TTEC.

Wagers continued, “We are well positioned to further increase our EBITDA and operating income, expand our margins, and reduce our debt in 2026, as we remain focused on higher value transformational engagements across both segments. We have the discipline and confidence to deliver on our 2026 full year outlook.”
